Method #3: Alt Codes: These codes work in most programs.

They are easiest to use if you have a full number pad on your keyboard. If not, you will have to turn the "number lock" on.

It's a pain to keep going back and forth, but the accents are absolutely necessary.

Directions for using the Alt Codes:

- Unlike using the Word keyboard shortcuts, you don't hold all the keys down at the same time, and you don't actually type the letter.
- Hold down the "Alt" key while you type the four digit code on the number pad. Your accented letter will appear when you type the fourth number.
